Center for Military History and Foresight (CHPM)

The Center for Military History and Foresight (CHPM) was created in 1969 by Colonel (General Staff) Daniel Reichel (1925-1991), director of the Federal Military Library and the Swiss Armed Forces Historical Service, who also specialized in the Napoleonic period. The Center is based at Verte-Rive, General Guisan's residence in Pully, on the shores of Lake Geneva.

The CHPM offers to its 240 members regular lectures and activities, interdisciplinary workshops, including a military history course, as well as exchanges on strategic and security studies. The annual program and membership applications are available under the following link : www.chpm.ch

infowargame

Infowargame was launched in 2022 by a team of wargame enthusiasts from the CHPM. The project aims to provide a platform for exchange between professionals, academics and wargame specialists, both in theory and, above all, in practice.

An annual program enables a group of specialists and experts to study different battles and complex problems through the medium of wargames. These events are accessible via the CHPM website, and registration can be done by direct request at the following email address: inforwargame@protonmail.ch.
